CLIENT

Our client

A leading technology services organization having global footprints and marquee clientele across various industries

End client

An Anglo-Spanish multinational airline holding company with its operational headquarters in London, UK

Business Challenge of the client

The client was looking for big data developer with the experience of Kafka and Apache with airline domain experience.

Challenges faced in fulfilling this role

Big data development , with Kafka and Apache , is an expensive skillset , while the budget of the client was modest . Coupled with this was the mandatory Airline domain experience and work location (outside London).

What is unique and challenging about this closure

Not many suitable candidates were open to relocate to Aldershot, as it is outside of London. It required strong negotiation skills and thorough candidate engagement to bridge the gaps between candidate and client expectations to finally make this placement.
